Excellent

The highest level of accreditation possible.

The National Committee for Quality Assurance (NCQA) is an independent, not-for-profit organization dedicated to measuring the quality of America's health care. It is governed by a Board of Directors that includes employers, consumers and labor representatives, health plans, quality experts, regulators and representatives from organized medicine. NCQA's mission is to provide information that enables purchasers and consumers of managed health care to distinguish among plans based on quality, thereby allowing them to make more informed decisions. The accreditation process is an evaluation of how a health plan ensures that its members are receiving high-quality care.

NCQA awards its highest accreditation status of Excellent for service and clinical quality that meet or exceed NCQA's rigorous requirements for consumer protection and quality improvement.
